

INVITATION TO
The International Conference
"Entrepreneurship for Waste Management"

4 June, 2007
Pomeranian Science and Technology Park in Gdynia, Poland

It is our pleasure to invite you to attend the International Conference "Entrepreneurship for Waste Management", organized by the Gdansk University of Technology. The event will take place in Gdynia on June 4, 2007 and it will focus on current issues related to the role of enterprises in waste management.

The major purpose of the Conference is to share the experience among the participating countries through presentations and discussion. We invite representatives of the private sector, waste management organizations, authorities, academia and NGOs to participate in the event.

The Conference programme is divided into three main topics: i) Production Companies, ii) Service Companies and iii) Cooperation between Production and Service Companies.

The first module is based on analysis of the conditions for efficient development of waste-friendly products. The second part consist of the presentation of experiences of service companies participating in waste management systems. The main aim of this session is to discuss various systems introduced in each country and confront different models and implementation of the Public-Private Partnerships in waste management industry. The third module is focused on the exchange of knowledge and experience related to the management of particular types of waste.
